

Member Benefits

- Receive the Division Newsletter electronically
- Participate in the DSFS Listserv®
- Interact with people who are passionate about their work

Interested in Knowing More?

Contact a Division Co-Chair today!
See www.sne.org for current contact information.

SNE's Division of Sustainable Food Systems

SNE Society for Nutrition
Education

Mission

The mission of the Division of Sustainable Food Systems (DSFS) is to promote food systems that are environmentally sound, socially just, economically viable and that produce quality food. The division supports leadership in advocacy, education and research through communications and networking among division members and with individuals and organizations in the public-at-large.

Recent Division Goals and Accomplishments:

- DSFS developed the brochure, "A Sense of Place: Serving Local Food at Your Meeting," to help other organizations explore the benefits of local foods at conferences.*
- DSFS sponsored a session at the SNE 2003 Annual Conference called "Voting for Sustainability with Your Food Dollar: Making Food Choices that Reflect Personal and Community Values." A summary of this session is now available in the DSFS Winter 2004 newsletter.*
- DSFS continually strives to introduce other nutrition educators to food systems principles. At SNE's 2004 Annual Conference, DSFS sponsored two sessions: "Buy Fresh, Buy Local: Celebrating What's Close to Home" and

"Community Food Security: Inviting Everyone to the Table through Policy and Projects."

- DSFS members demonstrate leadership in nutrition policy by being involved in SNE's Advisor Committee on Public Policy.
- The distribution of the DSFS newsletter is now available electronically.*
- DSFS plans to build membership by connecting with other organizations that have similar missions.
- DSFS is planning to develop a division position statement.

*Available at www.sne.org. Select "Special Interest Divisions," then scroll to "Sustainable Food Systems."

Division Leadership:

Co-Chairs

Kristen Corselius
2003—2005

Alison Harmon
2002—2004

Betty Izumi 2004—2006

Newsletter Editor: Linda Drake

Newsletter Distribution: Liz Crockett

Membership Committee Representative:

Kristen Corselius & Garry Auld

Policy Point Person: Alison Harmon

Photo Credits: Cover USDA, ARS; Carrots, Dana Vannoy (www.lewisclarkphoto.com); Farm, Alison Harmon